

Christine Poythress

Christine Poythress is a poet and author whose work explores themes of identity, nature, and the human condition. With a keen eye for detail and a deep emotional resonance, her writing captures both the beauty and complexity of life. Her poetry invites readers into moments of introspection, while her prose brings a thoughtful perspective to everyday experiences. Christine's words have earned her recognition in the literary world, and she continues to inspire with her lyrical storytelling. She has written a memoir, essays, and two books of poetry. Dharma's Dance, her first chapbook, was published by Finishing Line Press.

“

Dharma's Dance is a delightful mix of the ethereal, the mystical and the witty. Indeed, her work is truly unique, and I for one will look forward to anything she writes in the future, as I imagine will be her many, many readers to come.

”

—ROSEMARY DANIELL, award-winning author of The Murderous Sky: Poems of Madness and Mercy, and nine other books of poetry and prose

christinepoythress.com

facebook.com/christinepoythressauthor

@christinepoythress

For more information or to book an interview, please contact Nancy Fullbright at nancy@chickadeecomms.com or 912-667-8728.